Confidently and easily boost revenue, optimize spending and drive profits.

How will PriceLenz empower your business to improve and sustain top line results?

Take better strategic and tactical decisions
PriceLenz is a business solution, which supports both strategic and tactical decision-making, so that businesses can identify and realize revenue opportunities and boost top line results. At the same time, by eliminating spending on unnecessary actions, which do not generate results, businesses can increase efficiency and profitability.

On the strategic side, PriceLenz uncovers revenue opportunities, such as leakage and potential, at product level. With this valuable information, executives can better draft the organization’s operating plan, define objectives and targets, and decide what makes sense for the future.

On the tactical side, businesses can move from experience-based marketing and sales to a more sophisticated level of fact-based decision-making. More revenue can be gained in various ways. Marketing managers can scientifically target customers, calculate campaign cost and performance (ROI), and increase customer value through predictive analytics.

Product and pricing teams can optimally price, or re-price products or services to maximize revenue. Salespeople can confidently leverage the probability of the customer accepting the price or discount they want to offer. And e-commerce operations can benefit from automatic adaptation of prices for alignment with customer behavior, as the latter dynamically evolves over time.
